SAVE THE CORN CROP
Suggestion About Bringing in Northern Grown Seed.

The extraordinary floods have overflowed a great deal of the bottom land in many of the river valleys in the state, and whatever crops these lands produce this year are yet to be planted.

In a large portion of the state the continued raining has prevented the planting of corn and has destroyed the crops already planted. On account of these conditions the larger part of the corn land in Kansas cannot be planted until the first of July. This makes it important that the farmers of the state be furnished with the seed of some early variety, which will mature before frost.

There are several of these varieties which are grown in abundance in northern Iowa and in other states of the same latitude. It is suggested that an organization be made at once for the purpose of securing a supply of this kind of seed corn for the Kansas farmers. As soon as such an organization is formed someone could be delegated to ascertain where and at what price a supply could be obtained; and at the same time orders could be received from the different counties. Prompt action is suggested by an organization of this kind would save to the state of Kansas its corn crop of 1908.

These suggestions are respectfully submitted to the governor and to the state board of agriculture, with the assurance that a large number of responsible citizens can be found who will assist in doing the work and maintaining the responsibility of the effort.

MR. HOLMAN'S NERVE.

Flood Worry Hasn't Dampened His Ardor.

Mr. Harry Crow Who Will Sing Part of Haman Well Known.

The Queen Esther chorus and the solo cast for the performance at the Auditorium next Tuesday evening has a large contingent from North Topeka, and the zeal with which they are participating in the rehearsals is characteristic of the cheerful pluck of the whole people across the river over what would discourage ordinary mortals. The optimism which prevails in North Topeka is truly wonderful. People have worked all day cleaning mud from their floors and tugging furniture back to place, and then come across the river to the Auditorium in the evening and sing as if nothing unusual had happened. This spirit is nonetheless admirable because it has been inspired by the musical director of the undertaking, M. C. Holman, who in spite of his troubles as president of the Woolen mill, in fighting high water, has been loyally at his post at each rehearsal, smiling as if he was filling a fifty thousand dollar contract every week, and collecting his pay in advance. It is up to the people on the South side to come out and show these North Topeka singers that such heroism is appreciated and is not passed by unnoticed.

Nothing will tend to make these people for the time being at least forget their troubles, like a large audience. The advance sale of tickets at Stansfield's now going on indicates that the house, but they should have something more than this.

A number of the soloists in particular have been mentioned but not half the good material has been noted. Mr. Harry Crow who sings the part of Haman is another Topeka product. He was educated in our public schools and from early boyhood was a member of the Grace church choir. He worked up from office boy in the passenger department in the Santa Fe until he was promoted to one of the best positions in the local ticket office in Chicago. For several years he has been residing in New York and traveling abroad, and his versatility on the stage has brought him several creditable professional engagements in New York both as a singer and entertainer. His singing will be found to be up to a very high standard of excellence.

The stage setting prepared by Mr. J. E. Squires will be the most elaborate and beautiful ever seen in the Auditorium. Mr. Squires is no novice at this kind of work, having made such work a specialty for a number of years.

THAT NORTH SIDE INSURANCE.

C. G. Blakely Explains Why It Was Cancelled.

To the Editor of the State Journal: The insurance on the Central Sash and Door company's plant was not cancelled by the companies on account of the flood, notwithstanding a statement to the contrary by W. W. Manspeaker in the State Journal of last evening; but the policies of four companies were cancelled because the assurance was to have the insurance written under an acceptable form and pay the rate required by these companies. The matter had been under consideration some time previous to the coming of the waters, and Mr. Manspeaker well knew what the companies were demanding before the unfortunate flood conditions existed.

The day before the usual notices of cancellation were mailed to the Central Sash and Door company, Mr. Manspeaker was informed by one of the special agents whose company afterwards served notice of cancellation that the companies would cancel their policies unless the form was changed so as to give the companies a portion of the less hazardous part of the risk with the more hazardous which they were covering under the policies. Furthermore, the notices of cancellation gave the assured, as is required in all such cancellations, five days in which to secure other insurance. These five days single policy of the insurance under these policies in force until Sunday or Monday of next week, when any supposed increase of hazard on account of the flood would in all probability have passed.

Has any one known or heard of any other insurance on the North side having been cancelled on account of the flood? Is it not strange that of all the policies insuring property on the North side only the four little policies of the four companies mentioned by Mr. Manspeaker should have been cancelled on account of the flood? The fact that the insurance of the thousands insuring North side property has been cancelled on account of the flood.

A reputable fire insurance company would no more take advantage of such a condition to shrink a liability previously assumed than would a honest man
